Typhus Fever epidemic of 1813

- When the epidemic came through Leipzig, Samuel Hahnemann, the founder of Homeopathy, was able to treat 180 cases of Typhus, losing only 2.

- The mortality rate for conventional medicine was 30%.

The 1830 - 1832 Cholera Epidemic

- When Cholera struck Europe the mortality rate under conventional treatment was between 40% - 80% depending on the information sources.

- Samuel Hahnemann, the founder of Homeopathy, was able to identify the stages of the illness and predict what homeopathic remedies would be needed for which stages.
Dr. Quin of London reported the mortality in the 10 homeopathic hospitals in 1831 – 1832 as 9%

Dr. Roth, homeopathic physician to the King of Bavaria, reported that the mortality was 7%

Admiral Mordoinow of The Imperial Russian Council reported 10% mortality under homeopathy
The 1854 London Cholera Epidemic

- Under conventional care the mortality rate was 59.2% while under homeopathic care the mortality was only 9%
The Hamburg Cholera epidemic of 1892

- The conventional mortality rate was 42%
- The homeopathic mortality rate was 15.5%
Dr. Joseph Pulte, working in Cincinnati during the cholera epidemic of 1849, claimed that he did not lose a single patient.

People crowded to his door and stood in the street because his waiting room was full.
Yellow Fever in America

- During the 1850’s there were several epidemics of Yellow Fever in the southern states. Dr. Osler reported that the conventional mortality rate was between 15 – 85%.

- In Natchez Dr. Holcombe, a homeopath, reported a mortality rate of 6.43% and Dr. Davis, another homeopath, reported a mortality rate of 5.73%.

- In 1878 the mortality rate for cholera in New Orleans was 50% under conventional care, and 5.6% (In 1,945 cases in the same epidemic) with homeopathic care.
Diphtheria

- In the 1862 - 1864 records of Diphtheria in Broome County, New York the mortality rate for conventional care was 83.6% and the mortality rate for homeopathic care was 16.4%
Dr. Eizayaga of Argentina, tells of a Polio epidemic in Buenos Aires in 1957, where the symptoms of the epidemic resembled those of the homeopathic remedy Lathyrus sativa. The homeopathic doctors and pharmacies gave Lathyrus 30c as a prophylactic and thousands of doses were distributed. Nobody registered a case of contagion.
This plant, if eaten in its raw form, affects the anterior and lateral columns of the spinal cord, causing many paralytic affections of the lower extremities. It causes excessive rigidity of the legs, spastic gait.

Thus, using it in homeopathic form, it can be helpful in the recovery of nerve power in those with wasting and exhaustive diseases.

Lathyrus Sativa in homeopathic form proved to be extremely helpful in the polio epidemic in Argentina.
“Homeopathic doctors rose to the challenge of the most appalling Influenza pandemic in history, and they did so without the fear and uncertainty that paralyzed their allopathic colleagues.”

Dr. Frank Wieland of Chicago wrote: “In a plant of 8,000 workers there was only one death. Gelsemium was practically the only homeopathic remedy used, there was no use of either aspirin or vaccination.”
The 1918 – 1919 Influenza Pandemic

- Dean W. A. Pearson of Philadelphia collected 26,795 cases of Influenza treated by homeopathic physicians. The mortality rate was 1.05% while the rate for conventional medicine was 30%.

- Dr. H. A. Roberts of Connecticut had 30 physicians respond to his request for data. They reported 6,602 cases with 55 deaths, which is less than a 1% mortality rate.
The 1918 – 1919 Influenza Pandemic

- Dr. G.B. Stearns of New York collected through the International Hahnemannian Association 17,000 cases of Influenza with a mortality rate of 4%

- Dr. T.A. Mc Cann of Ohio reported a 1,000 cases of Influenza with no loses. Please give all credit to homeopathy.

- Dr. A.B. Palmer of Seattle treated approx 500 cases which included pneumonia, he only lost two cases

- Dr. F. A. Swartwout of Washington had 11 homeopathic physicians report 3,600 cases of Influenza with only 6 deaths

- Dr. G. G. Bascomb of Lake Wilson, Minnesota reported 300 cases with no deaths
The 1918 – 1919 Influenza Pandemic

- “The development of pneumonia is a rare occurrence if a good homeopathic physician was called during the first 24 hours of attack.” (Dr. Arthur Grimmer)

- “I attended over one hundred cases without fatalities. I never deviated from the homeopathic remedy. I never gave aspirin” (Dr. G. A. Wright of Forest Glen)

- The homeopathic physicians avoided the use of aspirin and other drugs and had a low death rate. They emphasized the importance of fever in mobilizing the body’s defenses to heal itself

  “This epidemic should encourage us to renewed faith in homeopathy.”
Dr. Dorothy Shepherd from England wrote:

“One treated over 100, nearer 150 cases; both rich and poor, young and old, male and female; and the results were astonishing. The cases were not picked ones; some were seriously ill when first seen, with high temperatures and bronchial involvement, some had it mildly, and yet the temperatures in nearly all cases came down in 24 to 48 hours.

They were kept strictly in bed for a week after the temperature was normal, kept on dilute fruit juice, no milk, no tea was allowed. And there was not a single death in the whole of this series and no subsequent complications.”
Cuba’s experience with Homeoprophylaxis

- 2004 - HP was first used in Cuba in a small intervention against Hep A.

- Dr. Campa of the Finlay Institute was aware of the use of HP and decided to make a small test.

- 2006 - Dengue Fever. There was a small HP intervention using genus epidemicus remedies these were tested from 2006 in families of infected patients.
Cuba: Dengue Fever and Leptospirosis

- Previous to 2007, conventional treatment of the population with vaccines still resulted in thousands of infections and a number of fatalities, and at a cost of US $2 million.

- In 2007, medical authorities approved the use of Homeopathy in the management of the epidemic Dengue and Leptospirosis with successful results.

Two doses were given to a population of 2.5 million, 7-9 days apart, bringing the incidence of infection to just under 10 people with no fatalities.
According to the Finlay Institute nearly 90% of the Cuban population received homeopathic preventative medicine (homeoprophylaxis) for respiratory diseases and influenza with remarkable outcomes and a great reduction rate in mortality.

Homeopathic interventions were also employed in other diseases in Cuba such as Hepatitis A, Dengue, Leptospirosis and conjunctivitis with successful results.

Japanese encephalitis

- Dr Srinivasulu Gadugu, assistant professor at The Government College, Kadapa, India has been working with Japanese encephalitis virus (JEV) in the state of Andhra Pradesh, India’s eighth largest state.

- Vaccination has been available since 1941 but the small production capacity and its relatively high cost results in limited distribution and doubtful efficacy.

- In earlier years some homeopathy was used primarily the remedy Belladonna but in 1999, the Government of Andhra Pradesh sought the help of the homeopathic community to help combat this disease as it was acknowledged that a better, more holistic, way of prescribing was required to prevent annual recurrences.

- Since this HP protocol began in Andhra Pradesh in 1999, the mortality and morbidity rates of JEV have fallen drastically. 343 cases were reported in 2000 with 72 deaths; in 2001 only 30 cases with four deaths; in 2002 only 18 cases but no deaths, and in 2003 and 2004 no cases were recorded.

- The Government has acknowledged the efficacy of homeopathy.

Ravi Roy and Carola Lage Roy
German couple with a long experience using HP

- In 1983 they were asked to write a guide for travelers, they described how people started to use China for malaria prophylaxis. One dose of 200 c potency, after six months 1 M was given, then followed up in one year with a 10 M dose. They did this for about 10 years for people working and living in Africa and found that they were all free of malaria.

- Then after twenty-two years they decided they should do some kind of a study. They found a naturopath in Germany who travelled each year to Uganda, she was giving the nosode Malaria officianalis to 6,000 children every year. The school spoke of a miracle they nearly got rid of malaria, before this 55% were infected but after this protocol only 5% were infected.

Ravi and Carola built a school for freedom in Africa as a non-profit organization and all the children get the nosodes to protect them from infectious diseases. They also talked about a rabies project they began in 2002; they began to give Lyssin in the 1M potency to dogs that were rounded up. All those dogs that were given the nosode were protected from rabies after being bitten by an infected dog.

In 1986, in the wake of the Chernobyl disaster, they used the remedies Radium Bromide and Cesium for those affected and they have continued to use these remedies as a prophylaxis against radiation damage for those living in an area near a nuclear reactor, they have discovered that when these two remedies are taken the population do not get diseases produced by radiation exposure.

Homeopathy and Epidemics

- In this epidemic, as in other epidemics, homeopathy can be used both to help those already ill, as well as to prevent incidence in those exposed to it.

- Of course homeopaths encourage those who are sick to also consult with their conventional physicians and to follow all advice currently being broadcast by the WHO and CDC.

Why use homeopathy for an acute health care crisis?

- Homeopaths do not waste valuable time trying to make a diagnosis. They do not need to name the disease in order to help patients.

- The patient’s symptoms are carefully noted and a remedy is prescribed according to that individual’s manifestation of the disease.

- In an epidemic a handful of homeopathic remedies tend to emerge in the area of geographical infection. These remedies become known as the genus epidemicus. These remedies can be used as a prophylaxis to protect people who have been exposed to the infection.

- Homeopathic remedies are gentle, safe, inexpensive and readily available. There is no known interaction with conventional medication.

Homeopathy helps to dispel FEAR.
Homeopathic Medicines
Law of the Minimum Dose

- Homeopathic medicines are prepared from natural sources and are used in extremely small amounts

- They are recognized by the US Food and Drug Administration
Like Cures Like

- Remedies work by boosting the natural energy of the body so that it heals itself.
- There are no damaging side effects.
